For the spring/summer 2013 term, the Master of Arts in Employment and Labor Relations program is offering:

- ELR 7000
- ELR 7450
- ELR 7550
- ELR 7700

What’s new and what’s news

http://clasweb.clas.wayne.edu/maelr

Dr. Marick Masters,
Director
marickm@wayne.edu

http://clasweb.clas.wayne.edu/maelr

Our goal is to help you achieve yours!
ELR 7000:
Introduction to Labor & Emp Relations
Tue & Thur: 6:00—8:45 pm
0324 State (Spring course)
Instructor: Arthur Schwartz

ELR 7550:
Special Topics in Employment Relations: Labor Relation in City Government
Thur: 6:00—8:45 pm 0123 State
Instructor: Reginald Jenkins

ELR 7450:
Employment Relations Law in N.A.
Wednesday: 6:00—8:45 pm 0111 State
Instructor: Michael Nowakowski

ELR 7700:
Trends in Collective Bargaining
Monday: 6:00—8:45 pm 0127 State
Instructor: Ed Hartfield
EDUCATIONAL ENVIRONMENT

The MAELR program is marked by a highly diverse student body; diverse in race, ethnicity, gender, age, work experience and educational background. Unique among leading graduate programs in industrial relations, the majority of MAELR students work full-time or part-time, usually in human resource management, labor relations or related positions. Students lacking professional work experience may enroll (for credit) in internships coordinated through the MAELR office, as such internships become available. Depending on work and family responsibilities, students enroll in one to three courses per semester, including summer semesters. To accommodate the scheduling needs of students, classes meet for three-hour periods in the evenings throughout the week. Most MAELR classes are relatively small with between 10 and 20 students enrolled. The educational environment is highly conducive, therefore, to student collegiality, personal interaction with instructors, and the establishment of lasting personal and professional relationships.
The Master of Arts in Employment & Labor Relations fall graduates 2012

“They can because they think they can”.

Virgil

Albert Bowman
Octavia Eaton
Sumaya Haji-Jama
Kerry Gerdes
Lucia Gordon-Swims
Shirley Williams